

Leading for Results with Dennis Sparks

June 19-20, 2007 at Washtenaw ISD, Ann Arbor

The most important changes in organizations begin with significant changes in leaders' beliefs, the depth of their understanding of critical issues, their speech, and their actions. These changes radiate outward to deeply and permanently alter the culture, processes, and outcomes of an organization.

This session will explore ways district leaders, principals, and teacher leaders can change themselves to address three major barriers to improvement (lack of clarity, resignation, and dependency) and to promote transformations in professional learning, teaching, student learning, and relationships within schools.

Participants will:

- Develop clarity regarding their assumptions, intentions, requests, and "next actions" related to key areas of their work;
- Practice several "results skills" to increase their interpersonal influence; and
- Identify ways in which Leading for Results: Transforming Teaching, Learning, and Relationships in Schools can be used in their settings.
